Philips product recall

Earlier this week, AADL was notified of a recall for Philips Sleep and Respiratory care products.

AADL, funds some of the affected bilevel positive airway pressure (BPAP) and ventilator devices through its respiratory specialty suppliers. We are working closely with Philips, Alberta Health Services and specialty providers to determine the next steps in this process and to minimize the impact upon our clients. Currently, we do not know the anticipated timeframe for the repair or replacement of these devices.

It is important for patients to discuss their care with their physician before considering whether to discontinue any therapy.

Patients and their physicians can access more information about the recall and the list of affected products online: philips.com/src-update.

Additional guidance and information will be shared as it becomes available.
