Within the reserve there are 10,335 acres (4,182.4 hectares) that have been developed into tame pasture. One of the truly unique features within this reserve is a large hill located in the north central area that stands 3,100 feet high, and provides a spectacular view of the surrounding area and is referred to as Buck Mountain.

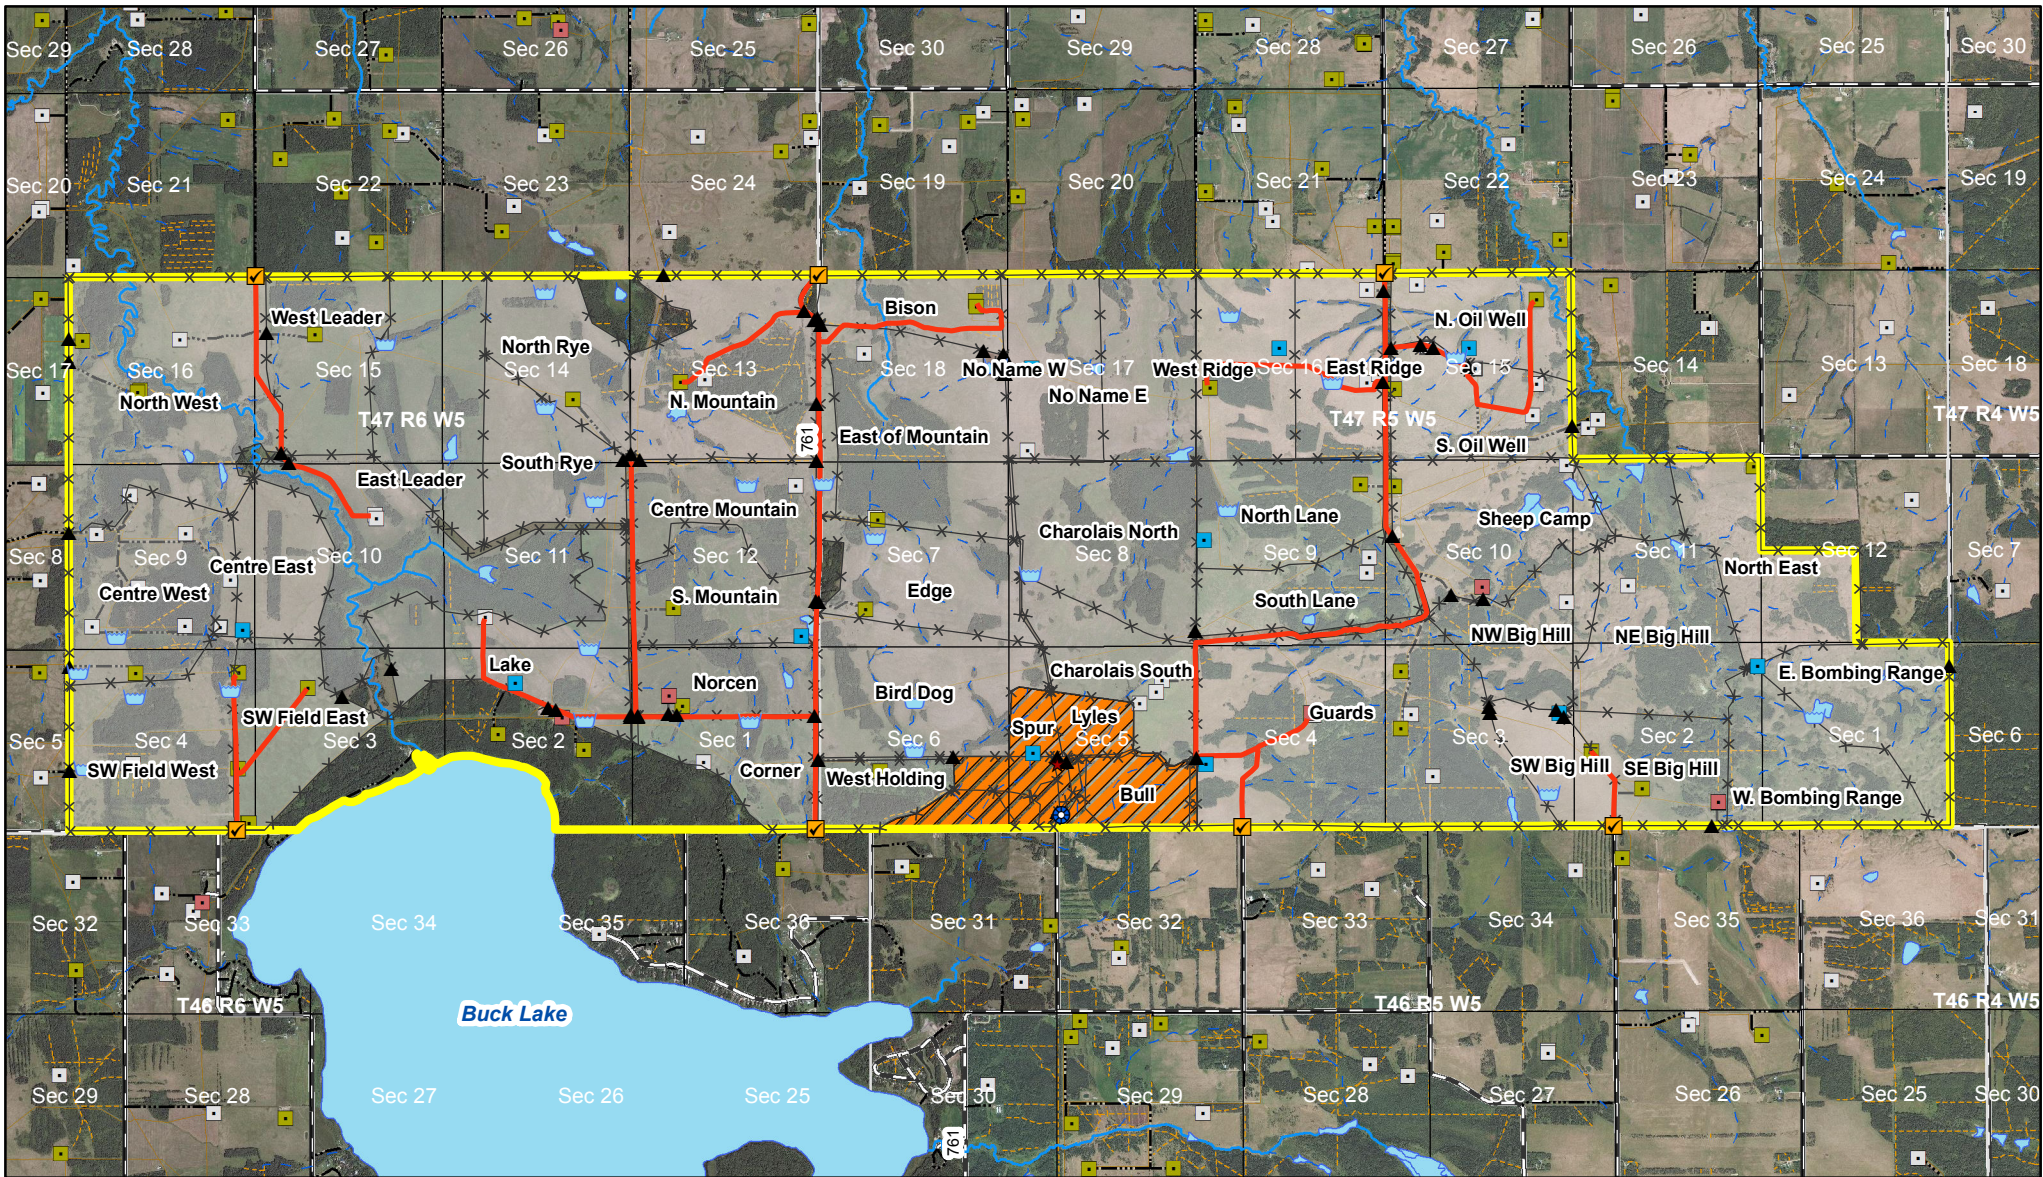

A campground is established on the north shore of Buck Lake, and provides unserviced sites, fire pits and a small concrete boat launch.

Provincial Grazing Reserves are popular recreational sites for the general public. Recreational access condition information for Provincial Grazing Reserves can be found at:
