- Australia and Canada are both members of the Commonwealth, United Nations (UN), World Trade Organization (WTO), Asia Pacific

Economic Cooperation (APEC), ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF) and Pacific Islands Forum.

- Both Canada and Australia are signatories of the Comprehensive and Progressive Trans-Pacific Partnership-11 regional trade agreement, which also includes Brunei, Chile, Japan, Malaysia, Mexico, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore, and Vietnam.
- There are more than 180 formal agreements between Australian and Canadian universities, almost 300 members of the Association for Canadian Studies in Australia and New Zealand and more than 2000 Australian and Canadian students enrolled in universities in each country.
- On August 18, 2014, Alberta's Ministry of Human Services signed a Signs of Safety MOU with the Government of Western Australia to draw on its Signs of Safety model so that it can be implemented across Alberta. The Signs of Safety focuses on tools to help workers determine a family's strengths and resources to reduce the risk to children and to create a safer healthier environment.

RELATIONSHIP OVERVIEW

- Australia and Canada have many similarities including a federal system with strong provinces and states; significant indigenous communities; large, sparsely populated land masses; and significant natural resource endowments.
- Australia and Alberta have similar economies that are mainly developed through the export of resource commodities and related products and services. As a result, they are major competitors in the agri-food and education and training sectors, particularly in Asia.

- Through its leadership in the Cairns Group of 18 agricultural exporting countries, Australia advocates increased liberalization of world agricultural trade. Alberta is a strong supporter of this initiative.
- Between 2013 and 2017, 1,345 citizens of Australia became Permanent Residents of Canada, with Alberta as their intended destination. Approximately 54% were economic immigrants, including principal applicants, spouses, and dependents.

TRADE AND INVESTMENT

- Between 2013 and 2017 Alberta's exports to Australia averaged CAD $193.2 million. Top exports were machinery, sulfur, pork and woodpulp.
- Between 2013 and 2017 Alberta's direct imports from Australia averaged CAD$122.2 million per year. Major imports included beverages (primarily wine), machinery and precision instruments.

- Alberta, British Columbia, Ontario, and Quebec signed a MOU with the Australian Securities and Investments Commission in 2012. This agreement provides investor protections to businesses operating in each other's jurisdictions.

ENERGY

- Australia's total proved natural gas reserves are the 10th largest in the world at 860 billion cubic meters in 2016. In 2014 Australia produced 63 billion cubic meters of natural gas and exported 31.6 billion cubic meters making Australia the world's second largest exporter of liquefied natural gas (LNG).
- Australia has a number of LNG projects currently in varying stages of development. The Gorgon Gas Project is expected to be Australia's fourth largest LNG export project once developed. Other projects such as Wheatstone, Greater Sunrise, and the North West Shelf are also planned.
- Australia has signed long term LNG sales and purchase agreements to supply natural gas to China, India, Japan, and South Korea.
- Australia had 1.2 billion barrels of proven oil reserves in 2016 and produced 322,300 barrels per day (bbl/d) of oil in 2015.
- Australia is the world's fourth largest coal producer and accounted for a third of global coal exports in 2015.
- Australia holds 29% of the world's provable recoverable uranium deposits and exports all of its production.
- A number of Alberta companies are active or have an interest in exploration, production, drilling and related services in Australia's energy sector.
- TransAlta has been active in Western Australia for nearly two decades and currently has six power plants in the region totaling 425 megawatts of capacity.

- Calgary-based ATCO Power has begun construction on the Karratha Power Station located in Pilbara, Western Australia. With an initial capacity of 86 megawatts (MW), the station is set up to be the most energy efficient in the region.
- Calgary-based Bengal Energy Ltd., has two exploration blocks in the Timor Sea; one with 100% working interest, and another with 10%, in partnership with OMV Australia.
- In July 2014, TransAlta announced a $580-million plan to build, own and operate a new gas-fired power plant in Western Australia. The 150-megawatt power station will provide electricity to state-owned utility Horizon Power and to a subsidiary of Fortescue Metals Group, a major iron ore producer in the area.

AGRICULTURE

- Alberta exported $10.2 million worth of agri-food products to Australia in 2017 (a decline of 35% from the previous year). Alberta's top agri-food export to Australia was pork ($7 million). Alberta accounting for 12% of Canada's total pork exports to Australia.
- Australia is a large agricultural producer and has significant beef, grains and value-added food and beverages exports throughout Asia. Alberta and Australia may have some common agricultural interests or barriers in the region.
- In 2017 Australia's hemp industry has opened to allow for food products from hemp to be sold in the market and imported. Opportunities for Alberta hemp food suppliers may exist to either supply or collaborate with local Australian hemp growers and hemp food processors.

FORESTRY

- Australia is Alberta's eighth largest forest products export market, valued at $18.8 million in 2017, an increase of 47 per cent since 2016, and led by sales of chemical wood pulp.
