

Updates to AADL Seating Benefits

Effective October 1, 2016, AADL is introducing a new seating benefits program manual and approved product list.

- The new program manual and approved product list can be found here:
<http://www.health.alberta.ca/services/AADL-program-manual.html>
- The new AADL Seating Assessment instructions
<http://www.health.alberta.ca/documents/AADL-Seating-Assessment-Instructions.pdf>
- The new AADL Seating Assessment form
<http://www.health.alberta.ca/documents/AADL-Seating-Assessment.pdf>

For more information about the changes, please access the Seating Benefits Factsheet:
<http://www.health.alberta.ca/documents/AADL-Seating-Benefits-Factsheet.pdf>

To assist with the transition, please note the following:

- AADL will accept both the former AADL Wheelchair Cushion Assessment Tool and the new AADL Seating Assessment form when authorizing cushions until December 1, 2016. After December 1, 2016 only the new form will be accepted.
- AADL will maintain the V566 ROHO Quadtro cushion as a Level A benefit until December 1, 2016. After December 1, 2016, this cushion will be eligible for full AADL funding to clients who are assessed as Level B or Level C. Please review the Seating Benefits Factsheet question #9 for more information.
  - All authorizations for V566 must be accompanied by either the AADL Wheelchair Cushion Assessment Tool or the new AADL Seating Assessment form.

