March 3, 2021 (9:30 a.m.)

- Mr. J. Polte filed complaints alleging that an officer tried to intimidate him and threatened to write a negative report about him. He further alleged that another officer refused to look at a recording that he took of the incident, which he felt was evidence.

The Law Enforcement Review Board, an independent body established pursuant to the Police Act in 1973, reviews public complaints about police officer conduct and appeals from police officers on disciplinary action.
