Frequently Asked Questions

Who Is This Guide For?

This guide is for any adult applying for private guardianship of a child who is currently “in care” of Alberta Children’s Services, which means there is an agreement or order that gives the director custody or guardianship of a child.

This guide was developed to assist those persons applying on their own for private guardianship of a child who is in the care of Alberta Children’s Services. The application process should be undertaken only after the child’s caseworker has been made aware of the person’s plan to apply, AND:

1. You know the child’s caseworker does not agree with your application for private guardianship, and you will apply for private guardianship on your own, without the director’s consent; OR
2. The child’s caseworker is not opposed (or is taking no position) to your application for private guardianship, but will not be applying on your behalf.

When Is A Child Considered “In Care” Of Children’s Services?

The following is a list of the agreements and orders where a child will be considered to be “in care” of Alberta Children’s Services (this is also known as their “in-care legal status”):

- Custody Agreement with Guardian (CAwG);
- Custody Agreement with Youth (CAwY);
- Apprehension Order;
- Custody Order (Interim or Initial);
- Temporary Guardianship Order (TGO);
- Permanent Guardianship Order (PGO); or
- Permanent Guardianship Agreement (PGA).

How Can I Find Out If The Child Is In Care And Get In Contact With Their Caseworker?

If a child is receiving Child Intervention services and/or is in care of Alberta Children's Services, their case is managed by a caseworker. The caseworker is responsible for planning for the child.

If you are not sure if the child you want to apply for private guardianship of is in care, and/or you have not had an opportunity to talk to their caseworker about wanting to apply for private guardianship, this is the very first step. Please call or email Adoption Services if you need assistance with this. Adoption Services will take your contact information, and if it is confirmed that the child is in care of Alberta Children's Services, will connect you with the child's caseworker.

How Does Private Guardianship Happen?

The Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act is the legislation (law) that governs all private guardianship applications and orders for children who are in the custody, temporary care, or permanent care of Alberta Children's Services.

Any person who wants to become a child's private guardian must apply to the court. You apply to the court by completing an application, submitting the required documents, and filing these with the court. The application itself is titled Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order, and the person applying is called the applicant.

When you have completed the application and have all required documents, you are ready to file your application with the court. If your application package is complete, the Court Clerk will file it and set a hearing date, place and time.

Once you have filed your application, you must give a copy of the notice of hearing to certain parties. This is called “service.” Once the parties are served, you must complete and swear an “affidavit of service.” These affidavits need to be filed at court before the hearing date.

On the hearing date, you will attend court, and the judge will review the matter and determine what should happen next. The judge can grant the application, refuse the application, or adjourn to seek further information.

How Long Will It Take For My Private Guardianship Application To Be Heard In Court?

How long it will take to have your application heard in court cannot be predicted. The time frame will depend on a number of factors, which may include:

- How long it takes you to prepare and file your application and serve all parties with notice of the application and hearing;
- Whether or not you have a Home Study Report already prepared (which is a requirement of any application);
- The decision of the judge as to what further steps may be needed;
- When the court can schedule a hearing; and/or
- Whether others (respondents) disagree with your application.

Are There Costs To Applying For Private Guardianship?

If you make all the arrangements yourself, you can expect to pay:

- charges for photocopying documents;
- fees to obtain some of the documents, including fees for your criminal record check and medical reference;
- fees to file the documents with the court;
- costs to serve the documents;
- any necessary travel costs associated with the application or court; and/or

- costs to have a Home Study Report or addendum prepared (if you do not already have one or Children’s Services will not be completing one for you).

If you choose to get assistance with the private guardianship application process, additional costs may include:

- costs of hiring a lawyer; or
- costs of hiring the services of a private licensed agency to assist you in the process.

What Happens If The Director Agrees With My Application For Private Guardianship Of The Child?

If the director (also known as the child’s Children’s Services caseworker or “director’s delegate”) is in agreement with you applying for private guardianship of the child, the child’s caseworker can apply on your behalf. In this scenario, the director is responsible for the application process and its requirements. This application confirms for the court that the director believes it is in the child’s best interests that you be appointed as a guardian of the child.

If the director is in agreement with you seeking private guardianship of the child, do not complete the process outlined in this guide, and contact the child’s caseworker for direction. The caseworker can initiate the process on your behalf if they are supportive of you being appointed as the guardian to the child.

What Do I Do If The Director Does Not Agree With My Application For Private Guardianship Of The Child?

If the director (also known as the child’s Children’s Services caseworker or “director’s delegate”) is NOT in support of you applying for private guardianship of the child, you have the legal right to apply anyway. In these cases, you become responsible to apply on your own and satisfy all of the requirements. As part of this application, you may be asking the court for an order dispensing with the consent of the director. At the private guardianship hearing, the judge will decide whether to grant the application, despite Children’s Services objection.

The application form to be used in these situations is:

Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order \(CS0458\)

This guide is intended to assist you through the steps and requirements of applying for private guardianship under the Child Youth and Family Enhancement Act. The guide, however, does not relieve you from your responsibility to make sure your private guardianship application is prepared according to the law. Do not rely solely on this guide, as it is simply a tool and not a legal resource.

For legal questions, you should consult with a lawyer and review the provisions of the Child Youth and Family Enhancement Act (CYFEA). You may also consider hiring a lawyer or a private licensed adoption agency to assist you with the process.

How Will The Court Know Whether The Director Supports Or Does Not Support My Application?

When you have filed your application for private guardianship with the court and have served the director with a filed copy of the Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order, the director will then complete a Director's Response to a Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order. The director files this form with the court, and then is required to serve you with a filed copy of it.

The form indicates the position the director is taking to your application, and provides the judge who will hear the case with information needed to understand the positions of the parties. Providing you with a filed copy ensures that everyone has the same information about the director's position. A sample copy of this form is provided in Appendix H.

Do I Need A Home Study Report To Apply For Private Guardianship?

Yes. It is a legal requirement that an application for private guardianship includes a Home Study Report (HSR). HSRs must contain specific information as required in the regulations of CYFEA, and must be prepared either by a director (Children's Services) or by a "qualified person."

If the child you are applying for private guardianship of is in care of the director but is NOT the subject of a permanent guardianship order (PGO) or agreement (PGA), the HSR can be prepared by a "qualified person." This means that your HSR does not have to be prepared by a director (i.e. Children's Services) to be legally valid and accepted by the court.

If the child you are applying for private guardianship of IS the subject of a permanent guardianship order (PGO) or agreement (PGA), the HSR must be prepared by a "director." This means that the HSR you submit with your application must be prepared by Children's Services to be legally valid and accepted by the court.

For further direction on Home Study Report matters, refer to the Home Study Report: An Application Requirement section of this guide.

Is A Plan A Requirement Of My Application? — An Indigenous Child

IF the child you are applying for private guardianship of is Indigenous, your application must include a completed Plan (CS4028). The Plan, formerly known as a Cultural Connection Plan, is a legal requirement under section 52(1.2) of the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act (CYFEA).

An Indigenous child is one who is identified as First Nation, Inuit or Métis as set out in the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act. The Plan is intended to address how the child's Indigenous identity, culture, heritage, spirituality, language and traditions will be respected, supported and preserved. As per section 57.01(a) of CYFEA, it is expected that as a guardian of the child, you will take reasonable steps to comply with the Plan.

The Plan needs to be detailed, specific, individualized, developed in a collaborative manner, and agreed to by all persons who are party to it. It must address how the child's cultural connections will be respected, supported and preserved over the long term.

NOTE: The Plan (CS4028) is a regulated form, but another form or template can be used and submitted, so long as it includes at least the information that is required in the regulated form.

When Am I Required To Serve Notice To A Band Of My Application?

It is a legal requirement that an applicant serve notice of a private guardianship hearing, at least 30 days before the date set for the hearing, if the child is a First Nation Individual or a member of a band (section 53(1.1) of CYFEA).

A child is a First Nation Individual if they are registered as an "Indian" under the Indian Act, or they are eligible for registration as an "Indian" under this Act. In these cases, your application must include a completed Notice to Band of Private Guardianship Application (CS12166), which has been served on the band or bands of which the child is a member or is entitled to be a member. The child's caseworker will be able to tell you if the child is a First Nation Individual, and if so, provide you with the necessary contact information for the relevant band or bands.

What Is Giving Notice Of A Significant Measure And Am I Responsible For This?

On January 1, 2020, An Act respecting First Nations, Inuit and Métis children, youth and families was passed. This federal legislation places an obligation on Children’s Services, as a “service provider” to Indigenous children, to meet “minimum standards” as set out in the Act. One of these is the requirement to provide notice of a “significant measure” being taken relative to an Indigenous child.

For the purposes of Alberta Children’s Services, all court applications are considered a “significant measure.” As such, Children’s Services is responsible for giving notice of any court application on the child’s parents, their care provider, and their Indigenous governing body (i.e. the child’s First Nation Band(s) or Métis Settlement). This requirement applies unless providing notice before the significant measure (court application) would not be in the child’s best interests.

This is to say that when the director is served with a Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order, this federal Act now requires the director to give notice of this significant measure to the noted parties. As the applicant you continue to be responsible for all processes outlined in this guide, but it is important to know and understand the processes the director must follow.

Those who have been given notice of the significant measure (private guardianship application) will have an opportunity to attend the court hearing and be given “party status,” which means the judge will hear and consider what they have to say about your application.

Who Is A Guardian And Why Is This Important?

If you are initiating a private guardianship application, you will need to serve all current guardians to the child with a copy of your application. A guardian could be the child's parents, a court appointed guardian, a testamentary guardian, or a director under the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act (CYFEA).

Guardianship refers to the legal relationship an adult has with a child and the rights and responsibilities of the adult with respect to that child.

In most cases, the biological parent of a child is automatically a guardian to the child.

If a person is the biological parent of a child and claiming they are a guardian, you should serve them. If there are questions concerning guardianship and who is a guardian, they can be determined by the court.

If a person who is not the biological parent of a child claims to be a guardian of the child, ask that they produce a copy of the order or document that appoints them as a guardian.

For a child who is the subject of a Temporary Guardianship Order (TGO), the director becomes the child's temporary guardian, along with the child's other legal guardians. For a child who is the subject of a Permanent Guardianship Order (PGO), or a Permanent Guardianship Agreement (PGA), the director becomes the child's sole guardian and there are no other guardians to the child.

If you have any questions or concerns about any individual's status as guardian, consult with a lawyer.

Completing Service And Providing Notice

The rules and procedures for completing service, and counting days for service can be complicated and vary by the nature of required service and the application in question. For guidance, refer to the Alberta Rules of Court or check with your lawyer if you have one. To access the Alberta Rules of Court available through the Alberta Queen's Printer, visit:

Home Study Report: An Application Requirement

As per legislation, every application for private guardianship made under CYFEA requires that a Home Study Report (HSR) be included as part of the application package filed with the court.

This section of the guide will:

- answer some frequently asked questions about the Home Study Report as a requirement of an application for private guardianship;
- identify the four scenarios where applications for private guardianship will be made;
- review the circumstances where a Home Study Report should already have been completed, as well as when and how it can be used for your application for private guardianship; and
- outline the circumstances when a “qualified person” may prepare the Home Study Report and when a director must prepare it.

Frequently Asked Questions: The Home Study Report (HSR)

In what circumstances would I already have a HSR prepared by a director?

1. If the child is already living with you because you are that child’s foster or kinship caregiver, you should have an existing HSR which approved you to provide either foster or kinship care to that child or others.
2. If you are an approved foster or kinship caregiver, but the child you wish to apply for private guardianship of is not currently living with you, you should have an existing HSR that approved you as a caregiver.
3. If the child was only recently placed with you, your HSR may not yet be completed. The director (Children’s Services) is responsible for ensuring one is undertaken to formally approve you as that child’s caregiver. You should have a HSR completed within a short time of the child’s placement in your care.

4. If you are currently an approved and waiting adoptive family, either through the government or a private licensed agency.

What if I have had a HSR completed but do not have a copy of it?

If you have had a HSR completed, you should have received a copy of it to keep for your own records, and you may use this to submit to court as part of your application for private guardianship. If you have misplaced your copy or did not receive one, you can ask the child's caseworker for another copy.

Who is a “qualified person” needed to prepare a HSR?

According to the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act regulations (AB Reg 160/2004), a qualified person is:

- an individual registered in the general register category of the regulated members registry of the Alberta College of Social Workers (ACSW); or
- a person who, in the opinion of the Minister, is qualified because of the person's education and experience.

What is the difference between a HSR “prepared by a director” and one “prepared by a qualified person”?

All HSRs are completed by a “qualified person,” who is responsible for the assessment process and writing the report.

When a HSR is “prepared by a director,” it means that the decision to approve or not approve the applicants is made by Children's Services. The director (or director's delegate) reviews the completed HSR and will consider the recommendation made by the home study writer to approve the applicants or not approve them, but the final decision of whether to approve or not is made by the director. In these cases, the HSR is not considered complete until this decision by the director has been made and included in the HSR.

When a HSR is prepared by a “qualified person,” the same regulated assessment process is undertaken but Children's Services (the director) does not make the decision to approve or not approve the applicant(s). The HSR in these circumstances is considered complete when the “qualified person” who completed the report has signed it.

Is an addendum to my existing HSR required?

If you will be using, as part of your application, an existing HSR that was previously prepared by a director approving you for foster care, kinship care, adoption or private guardianship, the court may require updated information to your HSR in the form of an addendum (sometimes also referred to as an “update”).

An addendum will update the information found in your previously prepared HSR to reflect current circumstances. In having an addendum completed, the court will be better able to understand your current situation and make a decision without delay.

As with the HSR requirement, if the child is subject of a PGO or PGA, the addendum must be prepared by a director. If the child is not the subject of a PGO or PGA, the addendum can be prepared by a qualified person.

The Addendum to Home Assessment Report (Child Specific Legal Permanency) (ADOP12108) is the template to be used, as the information it covers meets the requirements of the CYFEA Regulation.

How can I find a “qualified person” to prepare my HSR or addendum?

To find a “qualified person”, you can:

- call the Alberta College of Social Workers (ACSW) to enquire about registered members who are contracted to complete Home Study Reports as independent home study practitioners; or
- approach one of the private licensed adoption agencies or community agencies in Alberta who employ or contract “qualified persons” who are willing and able to complete Home Study Reports.

(A list of private licensed adoption agencies and community agencies who may be able to complete Home Study Reports is included in Appendices A and B of this guide).

What if my HSR or addendum is prepared by a director and it is not approved?

Legislation does not specify that when a director prepares your HSR, and you are submitting it to court as part of your private guardianship application package, that it must also be approved by a director to be considered valid. The requirement is only that it has been prepared by a director.

Whether your Home Study Report is approved by a director or not, you are entitled to a copy of it and you may submit this to the court to meet the Home Study Report requirement of your application. The information contained in the report, and the reasons a director has cited for not approving you will be included in the report and will be considered by the court in its decision on whether to grant the Private Guardianship Order or not.

What if I cannot afford to pay for a HSR to be completed by a “qualified person”?

Having a HSR completed by a qualified person can cost several thousand dollars. If you cannot afford the costs of having a qualified person complete your HSR, you have the option of asking the director to prepare one for you. Making a request does not guarantee the director will prepare one for you, but your request will be evaluated and a decision will be made to either grant or deny your request. For more direction, refer to the Making A Request To Have A Director Prepare Your Home Study Report Or Addendum: Forms And Process section of this guide.

Meeting The Requirements For A Home Study Report (HSR), By Case Type

Four Case Types

Applications for private guardianship of a child who is in the care of Children’s Services can usually be divided into one of four different situations. The situation you and the child are in will determine the process you must follow to meet the HSR requirement of your application.

The four typical situations are as follows:

1. The child is in the care of Children’s Services, is the subject of a PGO or PGA, and you are their current caregiver (the child is living with you);
2. The child is in the care of Children’s Services, is the subject of a PGO or PGA, and you are NOT their current caregiver (the child is not living with you);
3. The child is in the care of Children’s Services but is NOT the subject of a PGO or PGA, and you are their current caregiver (the child is living with you); and
4. The child is in the care of Children’s Services but is NOT the subject of a PGO or PGA, and you are NOT their current caregiver (the child is not living with you).

Making A Request To Have A Director Prepare Your Home Study Report Or Addendum: Forms And Process

The Process For Making A Request

The process for making a request to have a director prepare your Home Study Report or addendum, and how the request is evaluated, is as follows:

1. You have had direct contact with the child's caseworker to let them know of your wish to apply for private guardianship. Children's Services does not agree with your application and will not be supporting it.
2. You have reviewed this guide, and you have:
 - confirmed that you require a Home Study Report to meet the requirements of the application; OR
 - reviewed this guide, and feel that your existing Home Study Report should be updated to be current.
3. You are making a request because:
 - the child is the subject of a PGO or PGA, and a director MUST prepare the Home Study Report or addendum. To have either completed, you MUST make a request to have the director prepare it for you; OR
 - the child is NOT the subject of a PGO or PGA, but you cannot afford to pay a qualified person to prepare it. To have either the HSR or addendum completed, you can request the director have it prepared.
4. You have connected with the child's caseworker to complete the screening processes and forms that the caseworker and casework team will use to evaluate your request. Screening processes and completed forms include:
 - three personal references for each applicant;
 - a medical reference for each applicant;

- a Criminal Record Check (CRC) for each applicant and any other adults residing with the applicant(s); and
 - an Intervention Record Check (IRC) for each applicant and any other adults residing with the applicant(s).
5. The caseworker and the casework team evaluate the information that these screening processes and forms contain, and make a decision to either grant or deny the request to complete a HSR or an addendum.

Evaluating A Request

A request does not guarantee the director will agree to complete a Home Study Report or addendum on your behalf. If your request is denied, the caseworker will let you know the reasons in writing. Reasons why a director may not agree to complete a HSR or addendum for you may include, but are not limited to:

- there is a case plan for the child that involves an expected return to the care of their birth parent(s) or former guardian(s);
- the child is not in agreement with your application;
- the evaluation of available information shows that you may not be a suitable caregiver for the child; and/or
- information from the screening processes and/or forms (see below), shows that you may not be a suitable caregiver for the child.

If your request is approved, the caseworker will be responsible for making arrangements for completion of a Home Study Report or addendum.

Request Forms And How To Complete Them

In making a request for the director to prepare a Home Study Report or addendum on your behalf, follow the processes outlined below. The forms for each of the four required processes are:

- Personal Reference (CS0013)
- Medical Reference (CS0046)
- Criminal Record Check (CS1800)

- Intervention Record Check (CS2687)

Out of date

Personal Reference (CS0013)

To fulfill the requirement of submitting three (3) personal references per applicant:

1. Advise the child's caseworker that you need to have personal references completed for each applicant;
2. Provide the child's caseworker with the names and addresses of three personal references per applicant (the same person can be a reference for each applicant, if they know each applicant);
3. Ensure one of the three references is a relative of that particular applicant; and
4. Ensure that each reference has known the applicant for at least three years.

The caseworker will send a Personal Reference (CS0013) form to each identified reference, along with a return envelope, so that the references may send the completed forms back to the caseworker. Follow-up contact between the caseworker and references may take place to discuss the information provided.

The Personal Reference (CS0013) form can be downloaded from the link in Appendix F of this guide.

Criminal Record Check (CS1800)

The results of a criminal record check, including a vulnerable sector search, are required to ensure that an applicant (and any adult residing with them) who intends to apply for private guardianship does not have an existing criminal record that would affect the safety and/or well-being of a child.

To understand how the casework team evaluates the results of a criminal record check, including a vulnerable sector search, refer to section 1.2 Criminal Record Check of the CYFEA policy manual.

To get a criminal record check completed, each applicant (and any adult residing with them) is to fill out the form below (CS1800) and, as applicable to your regional process, take it to your local RCMP detachment or police station for processing. Refer to Part 3 of the form for further instructions.

The Criminal Record Check (CS1800) form can be downloaded from the link in Appendix F of this guide.

This person has applied to become one of the above. Due to the vulnerability of children, a security clearance is a vital part of our approval process. Therefore, we are asking you to complete a thorough and detailed search including:

1. Criminal records and/or convictions of any kind that relate to the person to be checked (named above);
2. Vulnerable Sector Search;
3. Warrants of any kind that relate to the person to be checked; and
4. Police files from any law enforcement agency in Canada or otherwise, that relate to the person to be checked.

If you want to discuss this Criminal Record Check, please contact the caseworker indicated above as the contact person.

3 Record Check

Why do you want a criminal record check from me? When a family application to become a kinship care provider, adopt, or become a private guardian we need to make sure that any child in that home will be safe and well cared for. One piece of information we consider is whether any adult in the home has a criminal record, so we ask every adult to give us the results of a criminal record check done by the police. What if I have been pardoned? If you have been pardoned, and your pardon has not been revoked, the police will normally show that you have no record and you may legitimately tell us that you have no record. However, if you were pardoned for a sexual offense, the Solicitor General of Canada may still disclose information about your conviction. What if I have a criminal record? We will not necessarily refuse to approve your home. We will consider what type of offense you committed, the circumstances at the time and whether it affects your home's suitability.	How do I get the check done? Go to your local police service and ask for a criminal record check. If your municipality does not have a police department, go to the local RCMP detachment. Make sure to take this form and your identification with you. If the police find no record, they will provide you with a certificate that says no record exists. If the police find a record, they might ask you to give fingerprints to make sure that you are the person with the record. If you choose not to give fingerprints, we will not be able to approve your home. If the police find that you have a record, they will provide you with a copy of it. What do I do with the certificate or record? Once you get the results from the police, call us for an appointment to view them. We will not keep your original copy; but simply make notes about the results. We will not give out the information to anyone except Ministry staff who need to know.

Intervention Record Check (CS2687)

The results of an intervention record check are required to ensure that an applicant (and any adult residing with them) who intends to apply for private guardianship does not have an Intervention Services record that would affect the safety and/or well-being of a child.

To understand how the casework team evaluates the results of an intervention record check, refer to section 1.1 Intervention Record Check of the CYFEA policy manual.

To get an intervention record check completed, each applicant (and any adult residing with them) is to bring two pieces of identification, one being a government-issued photo identification, to an Alberta Children's Services office convenient to them. Indicate that you need to have an intervention record check completed, and an Intervention Record Check (CS2687) form will be provided to you to fill out and submit to that office. The completed intervention record check will be mailed to you.

NOTE: If an applicant, or any adult residing with them, has lived somewhere other than Alberta in the past five years, the applicant will also need to provide the results of an intervention record check from that jurisdiction.

Once you have received the results of your intervention record check, provide it to the child's caseworker or casework team.

The Intervention Record Check (CS2687) is only available in hard copy from an Alberta Children's Services office. To find the office closest to you, visit:

Private Guardianship Application: Forms And Process

You are responsible for completing and filing with the court any forms required as part of your private guardianship application package. This section of the Private Guardianship Self Help Guide identifies the more common court forms that are part of the application package, the circumstances in which each is required, and provides instructions on how to complete them.

Private Guardianship Application Forms

Each of these forms can be downloaded from links provided in Appendix E at the end of this guide:

1. Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order (CS0458)
2. Consent by a Guardian (CS1613)
3. Consent by a Child 12 Years of Age or Older (CS1612)
4. Plan (CS4028)
5. Notice to Band of Private Guardianship Application (CS12166)
6. Affidavit of Service by Registered Mail (CS1638)
7. Affidavit of Service (page 4 of CS0458)

Tips For Ensuring Your Forms Are Filled Out Correctly

- Do not fill out the forms by hand unless absolutely necessary. If you cannot fill out the forms online, ensure they are legible.
- Always type out the full name of the month when giving a date, unless the form requires otherwise.
- Do not alter or change any of the forms after you have sworn and filed them.
- When giving the child's name, include their full name and capitalize the surname to avoid confusion.

- If the form involves more than one child, all of the children's names must be on the form.
- If the form involves more than one applicant, all of the applicants' names must be on the form.
- Have someone review your forms for accuracy before filing them.
- If you make a mistake, or need to make any changes to a form that has already been filed, inform the clerk of the court, your agency or your lawyer (if you have retained one) to ensure that the correction or change is made in a timely manner.

- G If you are asking the court to dispense with the consent of any guardian (other than the director) or the child, indicate the name of that person.

Service of the Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order (CS0458):

For detailed guidance, please refer to Part 11: Service of Documents of the Alberta Rules of Court: http://www.qp.alberta.ca/documents/rules2010/Rules_vol_1.pdf

File the original Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order with the clerk of the court and have a copy of this application stamped by the clerk to use as the “good” copy. You should make enough copies of the “good” copy so that each party you need to serve will receive one.

You will then need to serve notice of the hearing on any guardian of the child, the child (if the child is 12 years of age or older), and the director not less than 30 days before the date of the hearing. Do not count the day of service and the day of the scheduled hearing as part of the 30 days.

The parties are to be personally served, unless the court has authorized some other form of service.

Serving notice on the necessary parties means giving them a “good” copy of the filed Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order, a copy of the Home Study Report, a copy of the Addendum (if applicable), and a copy of the Plan (if the child is Indigenous).

If there are valid reasons NOT to serve the Home Study Report, Addendum, and/or Plan on the guardian(s) and/or child, you must ask the court to dispense with the requirement to serve these documents.

When you have served the necessary parties, complete a separate Affidavit of Service for each person/child. The Affidavit of Service to be used is on page 4 of the Notice and Application for a Private Guardianship Order (CS0458) form.

See the Filing Requirements section on the next page for instructions on how to file once you have served the necessary parties and completed the Affidavits of Service.

Consent:

If a guardian or the child indicates a willingness to consent, have them sign the Consent by a Guardian (CS1613) or Consent by a Child 12 Years of Age or Older (CS1612).

As per section 53(1.1) of the Child, Youth and Family Enhancement Act (CYFEA), if the child is a First Nation Individual or a member of a band, you must provide notice of the private guardianship application and the date, time and place of the hearing on the band or bands of which the child is a member or is entitled to be a member.

In any private guardianship application being made on behalf of a child who is a First Nation Individual (i.e. registered Indian as defined in the Indian Act), it is the responsibility of the applicant to send the Notice to Band of Private Guardianship Application (CS12166).

The child's caseworker (director's delegate) will assist the applicant in fulfilling this legal requirement by providing them with the name and address for the band or bands, as well as the name and contact information for the person designated by the council of the band.

When the private guardianship application is filed with the court, a hearing date is set. Once a hearing date has been set, a completed Notice to Band of Private Guardianship Application (CS12166) is to be served on the band or bands. This can be done by sending the notice by registered mail to the band office(s), addressed the Chief and Council, or it can be done by personal service.

Notice is to be not less than 30 days before the date of the hearing (do not count the day of service or the day of the court hearing as part of the 30 days).

ONLY the completed Notice to Band of Private Guardianship Application (CS12166) is to be provided to the band or bands. The private guardianship application, Home Study Report, addendum (if applicable), and Plan are NOT to be provided.

If you served notice on the band or bands by registered mail, you would complete an Affidavit of Service by Registered Mail (CS1638). If you personally served notice on the band or bands, you would complete an Affidavit of Service (page 4 of CS0458). Refer to the instructions on the following pages.
