

The Camper's Guide to Alberta Parks

Welcome to the Camper's Guide to Alberta's Provincial Campgrounds

In this Guide we have included almost 200 automobile accessible campgrounds located in Alberta's provincial parks and recreation areas. Many more details about these campgrounds, as well as group camping, comfort camping and backcountry camping, can be found at albertaparks.ca.

Our Vision: Alberta's parks inspire people to discover, value, protect and enjoy the natural world and the benefits it provides for current and future generations.

Since the 1930s visitors have enjoyed Alberta's provincial parks for picnicking, beach and water fun, hiking, skiing and many other outdoor activities. Alberta Parks has 476 locations all over the province. There is a provincial park or protected areas within an hour of most Albertans' homes. Alberta Parks strives to balance conservation and recreation needs to preserve natural habitat for wildlife while providing places for visitors to enjoy nature or embark on an adventure.

The symbols shown in this guide are for facilities and activities that are most useful for your trip planning. If you're wondering about the full list of activities and amenities available at your chosen park, please refer to that park's page on albertaparks.ca

Reserving Your Campsite

Many campers appreciate being able to plan their trips in advance. Online campsite reservations for 2016 open in February. You can reserve campsites up to 90 days in advance of your arrival. To reserve go to reserve albertaparks.ca or call 1–877–537–2757. Check the live vacancy calendar for campsite availability.

For 2016, reservations for campsites will open on Monday February 22 with staggered times by region.

- Southern Alberta parks at 9 a.m. Mountain Standard Time
- Kananaskis region parks at 11 a.m.
- Central Alberta parks at 1 p.m.
- Northern Alberta parks at 3 p.m.

To reserve a group camp for any time during the season, reservations will open at 9 a.m. on February 8. Comfort Camping can be booked for any time during the entire season, starting at 9 a.m. on Tuesday February 16.

First-Come, First-Served Camping

More than a hundred of Alberta Parks campgrounds are first-come, first-served. This allows campers to be more flexible with their camping, particularly mid-week. You can tour much of Alberta using first-come, first-served camping.

Explore Alberta Provincial Parks and Recreation Areas

Whether you like mountain biking, bird watching, sailing, relaxing on the beach or sitting around the campfire, Alberta Parks have a variety of facilities and an infinite supply of memory making moments for you. It's your choice - sweeping mountain vistas, clear northern lakes, sunny prairie grasslands, cool shady parklands or swift rivers flowing through the boreal forest. Try a park you haven't visited yet, or spend a week exploring several parks in a region you've been wanting to learn about.

Good Camping Neighbours

Part of the camping experience can be meeting new folks in your camping loop. You can make new friends from different parts of the province or even from outside Alberta.

Join us in looking after our environment and each other by being a good neighbour!

- Alberta Parks welcomes you and your pets. Make sure they stay safe by keeping them on leash.
- Observe the regular park quiet hours from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Exercise consideration by minimizing generator use and ensuring pets are not disruptive to others.
- Bring a container to the communal taps to fill and take back to your campsite to do vour washing.
- Tidy campsites with properly stored food reduces the possibility of wildlife interactions.

To find out more, download the regulations brochure from albertaparks.ca or ask for one at the park.

For More Information

Albertaparks.ca has a wealth of information. Use "Find a Park" to see where a park is located and driving instructions on how to get there. Many Alberta Parks campgrounds also have maps and park guides you can download from albertaparks.ca to help you with your trip planning.

For up-to-date trail reports, liquor bans, wildlife advisories, fire bans and other important details, go to albertaparks.ca or call 1-866-427-3582 toll-free.

Visit Alberta Parks in your community, or discover new favourities in other parts of the province. Join us on Parks Day, July 16, to celebrate and care for these special places.
