Executive Summary

The Alberta Protocol Office issues flag advisories to the Government of Alberta according to the guidelines within the Alberta Flag Policy, as detailed in the following pages.

The Alberta Protocol Office is responsible for:

- issuing notifications to Government of Alberta ministries and other stakeholders (e.g. municipalities) in Alberta on half-masting and other displays of flags and banners (both mandatory and discretionary);
- advising premier on discretionary half-mastings or other displays of flags and banners; and
- answering enquiries from the public and institutional entities on flag protocols.

The half-masting of flags is a significant honour accorded to an individual upon their death, or to commemorate an event or anniversary of an event.

This document details the traditional practices that are generally used in Canada, and the practices used by the Government of Alberta to mark Albertans of distinction or Alberta events. It outlines the individual or event honoured at the location of the half-mastings, and their duration.

The document also notes recent developments in flag practise, and premier's discretion in certain circumstances. Finally, it also provides for the review of flag practices at determined intervals, and provides for a procedure to honour individuals and events that are separate from those honoured with half-mastings.

In order to ensure public confidence in the essential non-partisan nature of the official display of flags by the Government of Alberta the flag guidelines and the issuance of flag advisories rests with the Alberta Protocol Office and the Chief of Protocol. This also is the case in all other jurisdictions in Canada, where the relevant protocol office or office of the Speaker are the custodians of flag policy.

Introduction

Flags are a common feature of government and official locations throughout the world. Increasingly, flags are also on display at commercial establishments, at events, and at private residences. While of ancient origin, the widespread use of flags is of relatively recent origin. In Canada, the use of flags has increased substantially since the 1960s, coinciding with the adoption of the National Flag of Canada in 1965, and the adoption of flags by many of the Provincial and Territorial Governments.

The awareness of flags by the public has also increased substantially, accelerating in recent years with widespread electronic communications and the proliferation of social media.

Background

The study of flags, their history, and their use is a branch of study referred to as Vexillology. Throughout history, flags have been used as a means of identification, ranging from the extremely local to supranational, and as a means of transmitting messages.

Purpose of this Document

The use of flags in Canada is not regulated by any legislation, but by established practice and custom. There is no requirement for individual citizens or for organizations to follow any particular practice, but it is desirable that the Federal and Provincial Governments generally follow the same procedures to ensure that Canadians may be confident in the messages they perceive when observing flags flown at government locations, and for them to use as a guideline for their or their organizations own display of flags.

This clarity is particularly important on those occasions when the national and the Alberta provincial flags are flown at half-mast at Government of Alberta locations; it is highly desirable that in these instances the message conveyed by the flags is unambiguous. This document includes guidelines, especially codifying when flags are half-masted, which reflect and follow general flag etiquette in Canada.

The Alberta Protocol Office works with the various departments of the Federal Government charged with the display of the National Flag of Canada, and consults with the Protocol Offices of the other provinces and territories in flag matters. Similarly, the Alberta Protocol Office works with Government of Alberta ministries in advising on the display of flags in “Alberta specific” flag situations.

On occasion, in circumstances where a particular event or unprecedented occurrence requires the exercise of premier’s discretion on the display of flags, the Alberta Protocol Office provides timely and pertinent advice.

Types of Flags Flown at Government of Alberta Locations

Personal Flags and Standards

In Canada Her Majesty the Queen, certain other members of the Royal Family, the Governor General, the Lieutenant Governors of the provinces, and the Territorial Commissioners have personal flags. These flags are flown or displayed only in the presence of the person whose flag it is.

The Lieutenant Governor of Alberta's flag is flown at the residence of Her/His Honour, at the Alberta Legislature Building where the Lieutenant Governor's Office is maintained, and at any place in Alberta where His/Her Honour is actually present as Her Majesty's representative. Generally, the Lieutenant Governor's Flag is not displayed indoors except in Her/His Honour's study.

As a personal flag, it can only be used by the incumbent, and the intention of such a flag is to convey a message about the person occupying the office. Therefore, it is never half-masted, even when all other flags are displayed in that way.

The Lieutenant Governor's flag takes precedence over all other flags in the province, except on those occasions when Her Majesty or the Governor General are present. Within the province of Alberta, the Lieutenant Governor's flag may take precedence over the Governor General's in certain circumstances.

The National Flag of Canada

The Parliament of Canada adopted the maple leaf flag, officially known as the National Flag of Canada, in 1964. The act recognizing the flag was proclaimed and the flag flown officially for the first time on February 15, 1965.

A further act of the Parliament of Canada, Bill C-288, proclaimed June 28, 2012, encouraged all Canadians to "display the National Flag of Canada in accordance with flag protocol".

The National Flag of Canada is flown at the Alberta Legislature Building and grounds, at McDougall Centre, and at Government of Alberta locations.

From time to time, the Alberta Protocol Office issues advisories on the display of the National Flag of Canada according to flag protocol, and on other occasions of a singular nature.

The Flag of Alberta

The Flag of Alberta was officially adopted on June 1, 1968; it had been used throughout 1967 for the celebrations off the 100th anniversary of Confederation, and had gained very wide public acceptance.

The Emblems of Alberta Act (RSA 2000 Chapter E-6) describes the official colours and proportions of the flag. The Flag of Alberta is flown at the Alberta Legislature Building and grounds, at McDougall Centre, and at Government of Alberta locations.

From time to time, the Alberta Protocol Office issues advisories on the display of the Flag of Alberta according to flag protocol, and on other occasions of a singular nature. (See Appendix 2 for the comprehensive list detailing these occasions).

Other Flags

On occasion, other flags, including national or sub-national flags of other nations, supranational organizations (e.g. the European Union), or the banners of organizations or commemorating events may be displayed, most usually at the Alberta Legislature Building and grounds and/or McDougall Centre on the designated courtesy pole provided, as a courtesy to a foreign guest or for other reasons. These courtesy displays are co-ordinated by the Alberta Protocol Office and are subject to the generally accepted rules of flag protocol (See Appendix 3 for further detail).

Current Usage Policy

Recent History in Alberta

In recent years flags have also become a means of identity, in the sense of, for example, "...the national flag of Canada belongs to all Canadians...", and the messages conveyed have become more diverse, and are often expected to signal a collective message of celebration or sorrow.

In the case of half-masting flags, public expectations are evolving and embracing a wider range of occasions than has previously been the case. For example, in the case of the slain R.C.M.P. officer from St. Albert, the Federal Government viewed this as a line of duty death so flags were lowered at Royal Canadian Mounted Police locations across Canada only.

Following the premier's approval to lower flags on all Provincial Buildings in St. Albert, the Federal Government sent out an advisory that flags on all Federal Government Buildings in St. Albert on the day of the funeral/memorial service would be lowered to half-mast.

Advisories

From time to time, the Alberta Protocol Office issues flag advisories to select Government of Alberta ministries advising on the display of flags. These advisories most often are for routine or anticipated events (for example, national days such as Remembrance Day), or the death of a former Member of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta. An advisory will include the specifics as to which Government of Alberta locations are included, and the duration of the action the advisory describes.

Through Government of Alberta ministries, these advisories are disseminated broadly, including municipalities, post-secondary and other educational institutions, and public facilities, which use these advisories to determine their own action.

The public often use the actions of the Provincial Government as a guideline for their own decisions on their display of flags.

These routine and anticipated occasions are outlined in Appendices 1 and 2.

Other Bodies Which Issue Advisories in Alberta

As is the case in Alberta, all Provincial and Territorial Governments also issue their own advisories, including local specific situations for use within their own boundaries.

The Federal Government, the Canadian Armed Forces, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police issue their own advisories regarding buildings or institutions under their jurisdiction in the boundaries of the Province of Alberta. These advisories may or may not be identical to those issued by the Government of Alberta.

The Federal Government posts their advisories on a public web site and issues them via RSS (Really Simple Syndication) feeds to any interested individual.

Premier's Discretion

The Prime Minister of Canada and each provincial and territorial premier has recourse to a discretionary power regarding half-mastings. In recent times, other occasions regarding the courtesy display of other flags or banners to mark community events or occasions, has also required the exercise of the discretionary power.

An advisory may need to be prepared due to an unusual, unprecedented or singular event that requires a response not contemplated in the routine guidelines or is not covered in a scheduled "special day".

In these events, the Alberta Protocol Office consults with its federal and/or provincial colleagues, monitors their responses, and provides Premier's Office with advice as to the appropriate response of the Government of Alberta. The premier will make the decision, which is communicated by the Alberta Protocol Office through the issuance of an extraordinary half-masting advisory.

It is anticipated that the use of premier's discretion be infrequent, however it should be noted that public expectations around official half-mastings are evolving, which may require responses in novel circumstances.

In 2016, the Federal Government and provincial and territorial protocol offices agreed that the National Flag of Canada might be half-masted at the Peace Tower in Ottawa as an expression of the sorrow and mourning of all Canadians in the event of natural occurrences or terrorism resulting in death. In this instance, half-mastings in the various capital cities of the provinces and territories would not occur.

Appendix 1: Guidelines for Half-Masting

Note: The Property Management Branch of Alberta Infrastructure currently has 187 locations with flags that would be affected by advisories for half-masting flags.

Preamble

The Flag of Canada represents the principles of freedom, democracy, courage, and justice, and is an emblem that is embraced by all Canadians. The Flag of Alberta has a unique place as a symbol embraced by all Albertans that represents, for citizens, their highest aspirations.

The half-masting of flags at government and official locations is a highly visible way to commemorate and give public notice of the passing of an individual or individuals. The half-masting may be occasioned by a death long expected or in response to sudden or unusual circumstances.

Official half-masting is a profound demonstration of the province's and the public's regard for an individual, their office, and for commemorating significant events and historic occurrences.

General

The Alberta Protocol Office issues flag advisories to the Government of Alberta according to the guidelines below. Further, half-mastings are at the directive of the Prime Minister's Office acting through Canadian Heritage and/or the Premier's Office acting through the Alberta Protocol Office.

Procedures

The Alberta Protocol Office will advise, through an e-mail distribution list, when flags are to be placed at half-mast and for what period.

The following list includes various locations or combination of locations where flags might be lowered to half-mast. The e-mail sent by the Alberta Protocol Office will specify which location, based on specific guidelines:

For example:

- at the Legislature Building only;
- at the Legislature Building and McDougall Centre;
- at all Government of Alberta locations; and/or
- at Provincial Correctional facilities across the Province.

When the notice refers to the Legislature Building this includes the flags on the Legislature Building, the flags positioned on the east side of the Legislature Annex, and the four flags on the North Grounds at the Capital Plaza.

When the notice refers to the flags at McDougall Centre this includes the flags on McDougall Centre as well as on the grounds of McDougall Centre. The Lieutenant Governor's personal standard, normally flown at the Legislature Building and at their residence, is never lowered to half-mast.

Premier's Discretion

From time-to-time situations may arise that are not included in those listed below which may indicate that a half-masting of flags at some or all Government of Alberta locations is advisable.

Recent situations have included, but are not limited to, occasions of catastrophic death (particularly for those serving the public), the deaths of current public figures not otherwise noted below, the deaths of former foreign Heads of State or Heads of Government, and other exceptional circumstances.

Further occasions have been the result of the Prime Minister exercising their discretion, and the determination that Alberta, in a particular situation, may wish to have the premier exercise their discretion in light of that.

The Alberta Protocol Office will provide advice to the Office of the Premier of Alberta, and in consultation with the Premier's Office, issue the appropriate half-masting advisory.

Victoria Day and Canada Day

In accordance with the rules established by the Federal Government, if the flag is half-masted anywhere in Alberta, in accordance with the rules, it must be flown at full-mast on the following legal holidays created under the Holidays Act (R.S.C. c. H-5): Victoria Day and Canada Day.

This does not apply if the flag is half-masted for the death of the Sovereign, but the flag is flown at full-mast on the day on which the accession of the new monarch is proclaimed. It would also not apply if the flag were half-masted for the death of the current Governor General or the current Prime Minister.

Appendix 3: Courtesy Pole Rules & Process

Located at the Capital Plaza on the north grounds at the Alberta Legislature is a single 'courtesy pole'. A single pole is also maintained at the McDougall Centre in Calgary. The 'courtesy pole' may be used for the following purposes at the discretion of the Alberta Protocol Office.

1. The display of the flag of a sovereign country other than Canada, or the flag of a province or state or some other jurisdiction within a sovereign foreign country, to honour a state or official visit by the head of state, head of government, ambassador, high commissioner, consul general or someone officially recognised as a representative of a sovereign foreign country or a sub-national jurisdiction within that country, on the day of that representative's state or official visit to Alberta.
2. The display of the official flag of a Canadian province or territory when the head of government or when an official representative of a certain rank of that province or territory is on official business at the Alberta Legislature;
3. The display of a flag or a banner of an officially recognised international, national or provincial organisation which draws attention to worthy causes (events and/or campaigns) of non-governmental organisations as approved by the Chief of Protocol.
4. Flags or banners displayed on the courtesy pole shall be non-commercial, non-religious and non-political in nature.
5. On occasion, the Premiers' Office will indicate to the Alberta Protocol Office the advisability of a certain flag being displayed on the Government of Alberta courtesy pole; the Alberta Protocol Office will issue the appropriate flag advisory if and as required.
6. The display of any flag or banner shall be determined by the Chief of Protocol.
7. The duration of any display on the courtesy pole at the Alberta Legislature Grounds, Capital Plaza and at McDougall Centre shall be for one day from sunrise to sunset (the raising of the flag or banner may be at a prescribed time if the flag or banner is raised in concert with an event). Changes in duration are at the discretion of the Chief of Protocol.
8. The display of flags and banners on a courtesy pole shall follow the rules and etiquette of long established flag practice in Canada.
9. Unexpected and unique requests for display may be referred to Premier for decision under the Premier's discretion policy.

Process for use of the Courtesy Flag Pole

1. Requests to raise a flag/banner on the courtesy pole must be sponsored by a minister's office or the Premier's Office. Requests from the general public directly to the Protocol Office or Alberta Infrastructure will not be honoured.
  - a. Please contact the Chief of Protocol, Shannon Haggarty at 780 422-2236 or at shannon.haggarty@gov.ab.ca in advance of a formal request being made. The Protocol Office will assist in providing guidance on the propriety of the flag/banner and advise if the request falls on the same day(s) as a mandatory half-masting of flags (i.e. Remembrance Day). Requests to fly a flag/banner on the courtesy pole on the same day as a half-masting will not be honoured.

*A list of mandatory half-masting days is available at <https://www.alberta.ca/protocol-flag-etiquette.aspx#toc-1>
2. It is the responsibility of the sponsoring minister's office to notify the Premier's Office of the request to fly the flag/banner. A communications plan must accompany the request and must receive approval from the Premier's Office.
3.
